Bullhead in Motion 2055 Regional Transportation Plan

About the Project

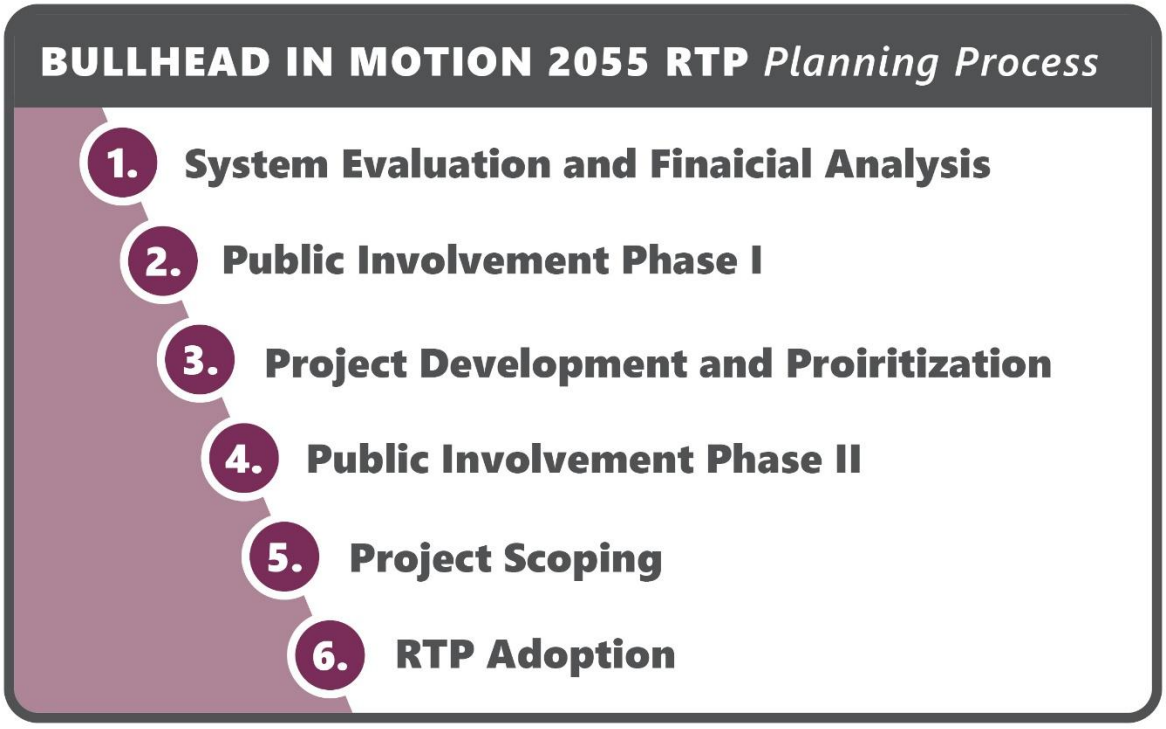

Bullhead City Metropolitan Planning Organization (BHCMPO) is developing the region's first transportation plan, Bullhead in Motion 2055 Regional Transportation Plan (RTP). The RTP will guide BHCMPO's transportation investments for the next 25 years and will solidify the region's strategy for creating a regional transportation system that serves users of all modes of travel and abilities. The RTP will analyze travel data and evaluate project needs to establish recommended transportation projects as well as identify potential funding and implementation opportunities.

The RTP will:

- Address all modes of ground transportation: The RTP will evaluate enhancements across all modes, including automobile, transit, bicycle, pedestrian, and freight systems.
- Analyze data and assess regional needs: The latest demographic, economic, and travel data will be utilized to determine where improvements are most needed.
- Outline projects for implementation that are consistent with anticipated revenue figures: Proposed projects will be prioritized based on realistic funding forecasts to ensure feasible and strategic investments.

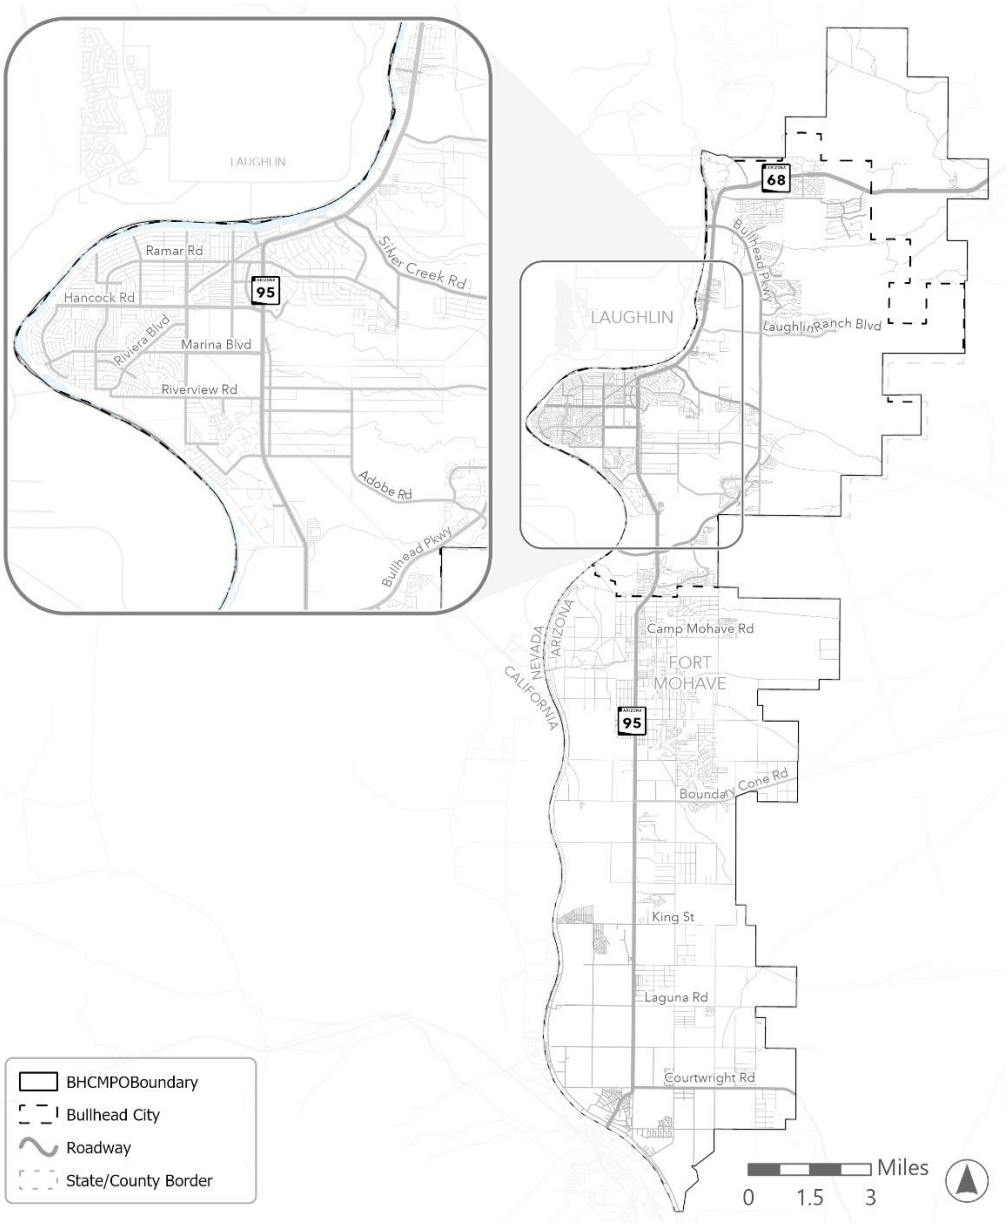

Planning Process

The RTP will be developed through a six-step planning process designed to assess the existing transportation system, gather community input, and identify future transportation investments in the region.

Study Area

The BHCMPO planning area serves as the study area boundary. It includes the City of Bullhead City, unincorporated areas of Mohave County to the north, south, and east, and Fort Mojave tribal lands to the south.
